FOREWORD

Forest giants, their branches thickly interlaced to form a solid green, covering mountain and valleys of rugged terrain.

It was a picture similar to this that inspired us to take you on a short journey back through this '40-'41 school year. May it in years to come bring back fond memories as well as admiration for nature's beautiful out-of-doors that surrounds us.

DEDICATION

Because we live in the section of the state where the forests play an important part in industry. Because these wooded mountain slopes give us extensive winter and summer playgrounds. Because these forests are always an inspiration to us.

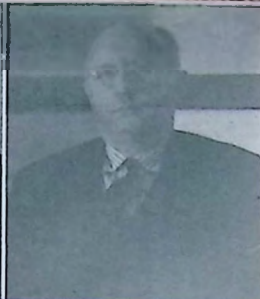

We dedicate this 1941 edition of the Echo to these lofty giants and the industries they have created.

The Class of 1942, sponsored by Miss Eula Curry, Miss Fao Brechner, and Mr. T. A. Tucker, their class advisers, has shown outstanding qualities of leadership.

Managing the class affairs for the first semester was Jane Orner, in the president's chair, Jim Hardman, vice president, and Clara Lyster handling the finances as secretary-treasurer.

During the second semester Jack Norris took over the presidential duties and Barbara Riedel the vice president's. The office of secretary-treasurer was handled by Anne Rodgers.

Board of Control members were George Cooper and Betty Ross first semester, and Marilyn Brine and Betty Ross, second semester.

The first event on the school's social calendar was handled by the juniors and amid the general grunts and groans which resulted from an evening of roller skating, the general opinion seemed to be that it was a grand success.

Splash! Gurgle! Blub! No, it isn't the seals at the aquarium, but the juniors and their friends enjoying themselves at the special Junior Splash Party, another example of their ingenuity.

"Guess Again," the class play, was excellently presented on April 4 and the applause which greeted the final curtain proved the success of their first major production.

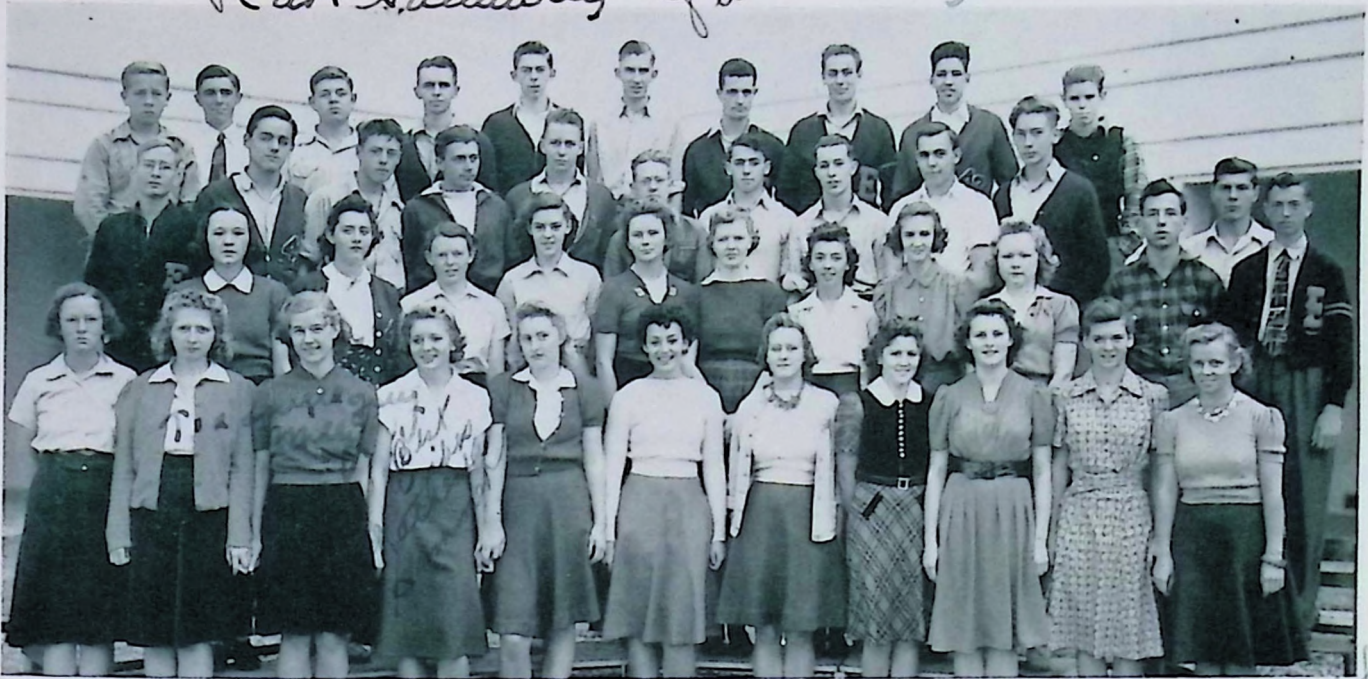

But having fun is not the only thing the juniors think of, for many times this year the junior class has led the honor roll by the high percentage of their members meriting the honor.

Their final all-school activity was the presentation of the Junior Dance April 18. The affair drew a large crowd.

The juniors also had their share of athletes. Participating in sports for boys were: Frank Hoff, Walt Ewing, Ivan Shilling, Don Day, Dick Paige, Jack Tuson, Myron Sjoblom, and Harry Kretzler. These boys were all first team players in some sport.

FIRST SEMESTER OFFICERS—

Harry Kretzler, vice president
 Agnes Anderson, treasurer
 Carol Foard, secretary
 Phil Roe, president

Heading the Student Body and Board of Control for the first semester Phil Roe assumed the duties as the leader of the E.H.S. Student Body. The Board of Control is composed of the Student Body officers, the class presidents, and a member elected from each of the four classes. Also one student was elected to be a spectator at the meetings and to relate to their respective classes the contents of each of the monthly Board of Control meetings.

An important activity of the Board is the planning of stamp assemblies and arranging the budgets for the coming year. Vice-president Harry Kretzler assisted Phil with the help of Carol Foard, secretary, and Agnes Anderson, treasurer.

Teiko Mafune broke all records by being elected the first girl president of the Student Body. Her assistants were: George Cooper, vice-president, Jim Anderson, secretary, and Agnes Anderson, treasurer. This group was advised by Mr. Paul McGibbon, Mr. S. C. Caudill, and Miss Luella Jones.

With approximately forty members the patrol has tried their best this year to keep order and system throughout the school. During the first semester Kay Clark was named head for the boys while Virginia Whitlatch headed the girls. Jim Busch headed the boys for the second semester with Virginia continuing as girls' leader. Mr. Roy Ballou, auto mechanics instructor, was director of this group.

Students

The Advisory Council tries cases of misconduct, and helps any one who desires their help. The seven members composed of the vice-president of the Student Body, the president of the Boys' and Girls' Clubs, secretary of the Student Body, the Patrol Chief and two members elected at large from the student body form the Advisory Council. Punishment is usually not given for the first minor offense, but the second time a student is usually assigned to some constructive work around school.

The Debate teams composed of Irvin Aarvold and Otho Halligan on the first team and Bob Caspers and Art Ayerst on the second discussed the topic "What Division of Power Between State and Federal Governments Will Best Preserve Democracy." In the contest at the Western Washington College of Education the first team received a rating of good, the second team, a rating of excellent in their division. G. F. Hatch was coach.

Alice Hawkins has spent a well-organized year as the head of the Advertising Club of Edmonds High School. Selling tickets and stamps at the games, plays, and assemblies, are just a few of the many duties that the Ad Club performs. Another important function of the group is the making of posters for advertising school functions. For membership in this club a student must have at least a "C" average, and submit an original poster advertising an activity specified by the president, also the student must be voted on by a majority of the members in the club. There are many good times coupled with the work of the members because each member in good standing is entitled away from Edmonds. All these expenses are paid by Student Body funds.

Girls' Club

Many new activities characterized the Girls' Club program this year. The officers for the year were: president, Jessie Carol Hendron (who was also D.A.R. representative); vice president, Nancy Smith; secretary, Jean Hill; and treasurer, Betty Hawkings.

The annual Christmas Party sponsored every year by the Girls' Club, to help the needy in the community, was cancelled because of the flu epidemic. The baskets were given out however.

This year the Girls' Club was asked to take charge of the March of Dimes sales at the grade school, and Jessie Carol Hendron headed high school sales. Members of the Cabinet were stationed in Edmonds to sell pins; tickets to the show "Movie Crazy," starring Harold Lloyd, were also sold. The advisers announced that the Girls' Club raised eighty dollars and forty-three cents for the fund.

One of the newest and most popular activities of the Girls' Club are the dancing lessons. Twice a week (Tuesdays and Thursdays) instructors from the Margaret Tapping Studio come to teach ballroom dancing. Approximately one hundred and fifty students have turned out for these dancing lessons.

Also, the Girls' Club has had charge of the ice cream stand during both lunch periods. Joan Applegate had charge of the candy counter, and Shirley Clark of the ice cream stand during fourth period lunch. Irma Gust and Anne Rodgers have had charge of the candy counter, and Virginia Ettrup of the ice cream stand, during fifth period lunch.

Sponsored solely by the Girls' Club, the Tolo Dance was held March 14. Formal clothes were in order, and the decorations consisted of green and white streamers with a large cluster of colored balloons in the center. The band stand was decorated with ferns and colored flowers.

Meetings have been made interesting by special vocational speakers, programs given by school talent, and a few round table discussions.

Boys' Club

Much deserving recognition is due the niche occupied in school affairs by the Boy's Club realm of activities. Certainly an active organization, though conspicuously lacking in diversified participation, the Club grew in prestige during the past season through its promotion of vocational analysis and educational entertainment. Officers guiding Boys' Club destinies for the year were president, Eric Carlson; vice president Jim Hardman; and secretary-treasurer Bob Sorenson.

Continuation of a program organized to administer more adequately to the needs of the school in preparing its future graduates for occupations, Jim Hardman, general committee chairman brought a choice group of vocational speakers to lecture to the boys. These talks, covering a wide field of endeavor, industrial, trade, and business, were instruments to acquaint the student with the nature of the work, its advantages and disadvantages and training requisites to attain the goal.

Freshman Guidance, now in its second year, led by Chairman Max Fisk in social civics classes each Friday during both semesters discussed problems showing the pupils' relationship to the school and their responsibilities to school service. Assisting Max were Bob Coomer, Ray Pennock, and Bill Eldridge.

Four years ago a projector was purchased, result: noon periods students trek to the auditorium to view travelogue films and educational features interspersed with comedy and cartoons. Realizing the influence of the cinema as an aid to academic studies, the school board provided the financial support for the project. Richard Taylor, chairman of noon entertainment, booked the movies and had charge of operating the projector. Assisting Dick with the technical angles were LeRoy Middleton and John Loudon, other members of Radio Club. Cherished memo: more pictures were shown this year than in all preceding years.

Dads' Night, principal social event sponsored by this group during the year was held in April. The program was successfully highlighted by the royal entertainment furnished by University of Washington sport teams.

Best of luck for next year's annual paper

Eleanore Thompson and Marynell Thompson checked the senior names and activities; Cathryn Sater and Betty Ross saw that the juniors were correctly identified. Freshman and sophomore groups were identified by Kathleen Ryan, Lorraine Eloffson, June Sorensen and Barbara Webb. Dorothy Young had charge of the eighth grade writeup.

The Organizations were under the direction of Lois Brumbaugh. Associated Students, Barbara Riedel; Boys' Club, Irvin Aarvold and Bill Day; Publications and Honoraries, Carol Foard, Mary Lou Platt and Dolores Dixon; the Activities group was headed by Shirley Dawes and JoAnn Davis; Drama, Shirley Dawes, Mary Miller and Elizabeth Plunkett; Music, JoAnn Davis, Marjorie Saxe and Hazel Macdonald; Girls' Club, Margaret Homanberg and Verna Lepisto; Faculty, Dorothy Davis and Betty Peterson.

Alice Hawkings was given honorable mentions in editorial writing and headline writing. Another junior, Carol Foard, received an honorable mention in copy reading.

The first semester staff under Alice Hawkings was so small that they had two reporters from the year before who wrote without credit. They were Doris Ruth Davis who wrote boys' sports and LaVerne DeVoy who handled girls' sports. Valerie Masson, Jessie Carol Hendron, Irvin Aarvold, and Ida Marion McClenahan, were Alice's news men and women. Denise Cotterill added the features.

The second semester group with Eleanore Thompson as editor entered the critical service for the National Scholastic Press award. In '39-'40 the Wireless entered this and won an All American Honor Rating.

November proved to be a busy month for the Letter-girls. Together with the Lettermen they sponsored the Homecoming Dance for the alumni. They were also in charge of the decorations and serving at the School Masters' Dinner held November 21. Activities for this month were climaxed by accepting a challenge to play the Edmonds business men's volleyball team.

Officers for the year were: Dorothy Larmore, president; LaVerne DeVoy, vice president; and Vivian Womer, secretary-treasurer.

Teiko Mafune, last year's president, has the honor of being the only girl in the county ever to have earned 5000 points in athletics in four years. To her goes a silver cup for her achievement.

The customary initiations were held in February and June.

Lettermen

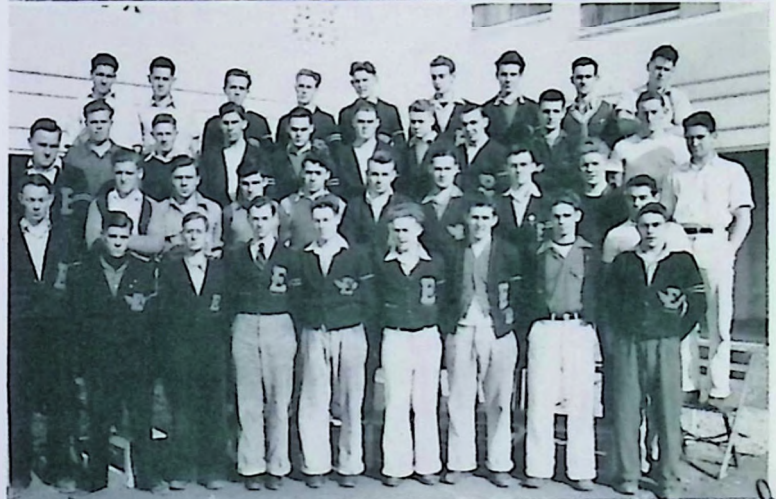

Building a filing system was the main objective of the Lettermen this year. The file is composed of two sets of records: the record of every Letterman, and an accumulative record of every sport since the Lettermen's organization was founded in 1921.

These records have been catalogued so that they are available for reference.

Each year the Lettermen sponsor the inspirational awards which contribute to the welfare of athletics. Walter Goulet received the award in football this year.

The annual initiation and banquet was held in May.

Officers for the year were: president, Walter Goulet; vice president, Bill Eldridge; secretary, Phil Roe; and Tom Niederhauser, bailiff.

Radio

The Radio Club, under the supervision of D. A. Jacobson, found time to take up other activities beside the studying of radio. These activities are operating the public address system whenever their help was needed, aiding in the installation of lights on stage for popular school functions, and studying the international code, thus learning many new and valuable things.

In the fall an election took place giving Dick Taylor the office of president; John Loudon, vice president; and Eleanore Thompson, secretary.

The seniors presented their play "Cross My Heart" on December 13. It was written by Professors George Savage and John McRae of the University of Washington, and directed by Miss Josephine Goodner.

The cast was composed of the following: Billy Eldridge as Bob Adams; Helen Carlstedt as Eleanor Ross; Pauline Adams was portrayed by Lois Brumbaugh; her fiancé, Charlie Westover, by Ted Niederhauser. Their chagrined parents were Dick Hill and Denise Cotterill as Mr. and Mrs. Adams, and Harry Gibbons and Betty Peterson as Mr. and Mrs. Ross. Bob's friends were Jim Ross and Carl Young enacted by Max Fisk and Johnny Grand. Phyllis Daniels, Mercedes Smart, and Adeline Osborne played the parts of the helpful girl friends, Patsy Jones, Lola Pomeroy, and Henriette Duval, respectively. The entire cast gave an excellent performance.

Betty Johnson and Walter Goulet were property managers, and Roger Coyne business manager. The make-up committee, under the supervision of Miss Laura Peltier, was composed of Yvonne Davis, Hermina Emme, Kenneth Fletcher, Eugene McMaster, and Earl Morris. The Stage Crew, under the direction of Wilbur D. Goblo, did the staging of the play. Torch members ushered.

The story concerned the Adams' young son, Bob, who cares little about his manners, dancing, or his appearance, and even less about girls—until Eleanor Ross came along. Mr. Adams wanted him to show her the town, but Bob wasn't going to. But then he met Eleanor.

They had something in common—each was afraid of the opposite sex—but they helped each other over the hump. They learn that their parents are greatly concerned over their inferiority complexes so they decide to go to the other extreme.

They get off to a good start. Bob gives Eleanor his sister's evening gown and Eleanor gives Bob her brother's dress suit. They leave their parents breathless after hearing their startling statement that they are going to paint the town red.

The parents become alarmed when Bob's boy friends bring in the fender from a yellow roadster, just the kind of car the two young people were driving. Then they receive a call saying a couple answering their description have just robbed a gasoline station.

Finally the two come home. They have not disgraced the family and everybody is happy as the final curtain comes down.

"Guess Again" written by Glenn Hughes of the University of Washington, was presented by the Junior Class of 1942, on April 4.

The play deals with a mix-up of just who is Lord Wiggleton, of Edgewater Inn, a small hotel at the southern California seaside resort. Mr. Grimes is running a losing hotel business. A guest, Bill Douglas, wants a job in the hotel so he can be near his girl friend, Janet Morse, who works in the hotel. Shortly before the mortgage is due, an Englishman, Bertie Blodgett, registers at the hotel. Bill tells a newspaper woman, Marcella Jenks, that this man is Lord Wiggleton, who is the wealthy and titled Englishman who is supposed to be somewhere in the immediate vicinity but is very secretive. Any newspaper worker would be glad to get a scoop concerning his whereabouts.

Then another Englishman appears on the scene claiming he is Lord Wiggleton. This gets Bill in a lot of trouble. Then both Englishmen leave, so Bill and Waldo Fitts, hotel employee and would-be actor, impersonate the two for the benefit of public and press. This publicity gives the hotel lots of business. Indeed, so much that Mr. Grimes can pay off the mortgage to Mr. Pratt, local banker. At Mr. Pratt's instigation Bill gets both the job and the girl.

Carol Foard and Jack Norris furnish the romance of the play as Janet and Bill. Leonard Dreschler as Grimes, owner of the hotel; Dick Osgood is cast as Waldo Fitts, a would-be actor who is temporarily employed as porter at the inn. Mrs. Skinner and daughter, Dora Mae, who are guests at the inn, are played by Betty Ross and Betty Hawkings, respectively. Shirley Dawes enacts the part of Olive Ordway, a health fad-dist and founder of the Uplift Walk. Patricia Morgan plays the part of Marcella Jenks, a journalist girl-wonder.

Lord Wiggleton and Bertie Blodgett, his valet, are portrayed by Raymond Pennock and Bob Gibbons. Newton Fisher is cast as Pratt, the local banker. Todda Webb has the part of Renee Lamour, Hollywood chiseler extraordinary, and Sol Messer, a movie magnate with Otho Halligan in the part. Journalist Jo Ann Davis portrays Lulu Perkins, the newspaper columnist.

Beside the cast there were others just as responsible for the general success of "Guess Again." They were the prompters, Katherine Hammer and Otho Halligan; business manager, Bob Applegate; and the ushers and doormen.

Roxaine Carter and Ernest Bjorg were in charge of properties and Juanitta Sumey, Joann Holmes, George Evans, and Lucile McClellan helped with the make-up.

The cast and the student body felt especially grateful to their director, Miss Eula Curry, and to the stage crew under the management of Mr. E. L. Jaynes.

ACROBAT: Gloria Goodson.
HIGHLAND FLING: Louellyn Whitson, Shirley Ballard, Eugenie King, and Patsy Hill.

CHEMISTRY ACT: John Grand and Betty Stadler.

ENTIRE CAST: Laura Hoff as The Statue of Liberty and Fae Brechner, Director, at extreme right.

LETTERGIRL ACT: Betty Stadler, Carol Foard, La Verne De Voy, Ruth Boyle, and Dorothy Korshaven.

On November 8, 1940, the curtain rose on the annual all-school vodvil. The timely and patriotic theme was "Hello America"; the setting was laid in the Ellis Island waiting room.

Maxine Sylvia and Mildred Sweet opened the show with a piano duet. The Girls' Club presented a stirring "drama" about Pocahontas. The Torch skit told the story of three mixed-up foreigners, Margaret Homanberg, Shirley Dawes, and Nancy Smith, who were left more bewildered by the kindly "help" of two Americans, Jo Ann Davis and Kathleen Ryan; while the Drama Club's skit revealed the "tender" meeting of a long-parted couple. A dead-pan farce about royalty was contributed by Ruth Boyle, La Verne DeVoy, Carol Foard, Dorothy Korshaven, and Betty Stadler for the Lettergirls. The Thespians gave a modern version of Columbus.

Tumbling acts were presented by four girls, Agnes Anderson, Marilyn Brine, La Verne DeVoy, and Jean Whitlatch, from the regular team and a troupe of Alderwood grade school boys. A rather conceited matador, Billy Eldridge, and his bull, Harry Kretzler and Phil Roe, were constantly trying to sneak past customs officials. Three Edmonds grade school pupils drummed and drilled. Fredalee Akers strummed her guitar in strict Hawaiian fashion.

Although her pantaloons kept falling down due to some broken elastic, Katinka and her sister, Hilda (Ann Rodgers and Jean Hill) bravely went on with their act. Jimmy Jewell and Willie added a bit of humor here and there. Some shysters, Dick Coyne and Dick Solver, got the best of a peanut vender, Charles Murrill, who went to sell his wares. The Music Makers, Wallace Carlson, George Cooper, Gordon Peterson, and Ray Thorne, gave their rendition of a western medley; and Ralph Halderson played his accordion. Barnita Brodnix and Lucille McClellan each sang a solo.

Berdeen Lancaster twirled "between boats", followed by Valerie Masson with a violin solo. Mr. Van Slurp and Miss Tweet, alias John Grand and Betty Stadler, took the audience into the fantastic realm of magic. A comical and mystifying goon dance was enacted by Teiko Mafune and Vivian Womer. A beautiful dramatic "Viennese Dream" climaxed the vodvil. Laura Hoff represented the Statute of Liberty in the finale.

Miss Brechner was faculty director. Student directors were Vivian Womer and Dick Taylor. Vocal music was under Miss Josephine Goodner's direction; instrumental music and folk dances were directed by Miss Fae Brechner. Harry Gibbons was master of ceremonies, and Dick Hill was porter.

Stage Ever present at all school functions in the auditorium the eighteen stage crew members add the back stage touches with ease. From opening the curtain at the beginning of the Vodvil or the plays, Junior, Senior and Dramatic Club, to closing them again at the end the crew rush like mad.

Their work this year has been most commendable although they had to change advisers in the middle of the year.

Outside activities such as several partise and a farewell beach party for a member, Dale Holtcamp, who left for Alaska in April, added to their enjoyment.

The equipment was used for the Vodvil at Esperance. In the home productions the crew constructed the scenes for the Vodvil, the Senior Play, "Cross My Heart;" the Junior Play, "Guess Again;" and for the Dramatic Club Play, "Hot Water."

At all assomblies the stage crew is on hand to pull curtains and adjust the lights. What little time is left is taken up with maintaining equipment.

Drama With Lois Brumbaugh as president, Bob Coomer as vice president, and Dorothy Jennings as secretary, the Dramatics Club consisting of seventy-six members met regularly during the first semester.

At one of the meetings, Hermine Emme, with the help of Anne Rodgers, demonstrated putting on straight stage make-up. For the Vodvil fifteen members of the club wrote and presented a skit. Eight members prepared a play, "Catching Up with Christmas," but were prevented from giving it by the flu epidemic.

In the second semester, with Patricia Morgan as president, Anne Rodgers vice president, and Mary Neal secretary, they finished their active year by a play "Hot Water," which was given at a student assembly, after being postponed many times on account of measles and other epidemics. It was a two act comedy. The cast included: Tom Niederhauser, Mary Neal, Patricia Morgan, Mike Kunz, Jean Colley, Billy Crump, Audrey Brown, and Dick Osgood, under the direction of Grace Demmery. The years work was concluded with a picnic.

Band A concert at the Puyallup Fair, September 19, started the Edmonds high school band off to an active year of playing for games, pep rallies, and meetings under the direction of William O. Osborn.

At practically every football game the pep band could be heard playing snappy marches and leading the crowd in the good old "rah rah for Edmonds—Edmonds will win——". And Edmonds usually did win, too.

During the half of the Edmonds-Marysville football game on Armistice Day, the full band donned caps and capes to go through a series of formations on the football field. The formation of an "M" accompanied by the somber strains of a "Funeral March" drew applause from both Edmonds and Marysville stands. An "E" followed while band and spectators joined in the school pep song.

On March 8 the Northwest Washington Solo Contest was held at Lincoln high school in Tacoma. Three members of the band entered. Tom Niederhauser, a senior, on French horn; Wanda Goble, a junior, on flute; Ray Pennock, a junior, on clarinet.

Tom received a second rating for his performance of "Nocturne" by Mendelssohn. Wanda received a second rating for her solo "Serenade", by Tittel, and Ray, a third rating for "Csardas" by Monti.

Other events included entrance into the band contest on April 26, and participation in the annual music festival at Everett.

Orchestra Upholding a long-standing reputation as a first-class organization, the Edmonds high school orchestra wound up another active year of playing for school functions, contests, and festivals under the direction of Miss Fae Brechner.

Taking an active part in the Annual All-School Vodvil, the orchestra and members from the orchestra provided several musical backgrounds for various acts. Between acts of the Junior and Senior Plays the orchestra also provided entertainment.

At the Northwest Washington Solo Contest held in Tacoma March 7 and 8, there were several entrants from the orchestra including solos and ensembles. George Cooper, junior, on violin, played "De Breiot No. 9" receiving a second rating, or excellent. Valerie Masson, junior, on the violin, played "Concerto in A Minor" receiving a first rating, superior. Mary Neal, also a junior, received a first rating for a viola solo, "Minuetto."

A string quintet, comprised of June Sorensen on string bass, Jean Whitlatch on cello, Mary Neal on viola, and Mercedes Smart and Valerie Masson on violins, played "Serenade in Four Movements." They were accompanied by Janet Morse, who deserves special mention for her accompaniments of various soloists and ensembles throughout the year. The quintet received a first rating, which entitles them to enter the National contest. The other ensemble, a String Trio, comprised of Valerie Masson and George Cooper, accompanied by Janet Morse, received a second rating for "Glow Worm."

In the spring, a week before the contest, Miss Brechner held an hour long musical to accustom the orchestra to playing before the public.

Glee Members of glee which meets three times a week, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, get one school credit a year.

During the year, this group performed before different community and church organizations with several small groups being chosen from the organization to sing at these occasions.

They presented a candlelight scene in which they sang from the balcony during the last Girls' Club meeting before the Christmas holidays.

Chorus and glee, combined, sang offstage in the Vodvil, presenting Stephen Foster songs as a background for the scenes enacted. Several individual members as well as groups took part in the Vodvil.

Lucille McClellan placed first with her solo "April, My April", in the Western Washington Music Meet in Tacoma in the early spring.

Chorus Chorus, composed mostly of upper classmen this year, has seen its numbers increased throughout the term. There are now about forty-four enrolled. However, the larger numbers have not accomplished as much outside work as in former years, because of the lack of enrollment in certain divisions, notably, in the tenor section.

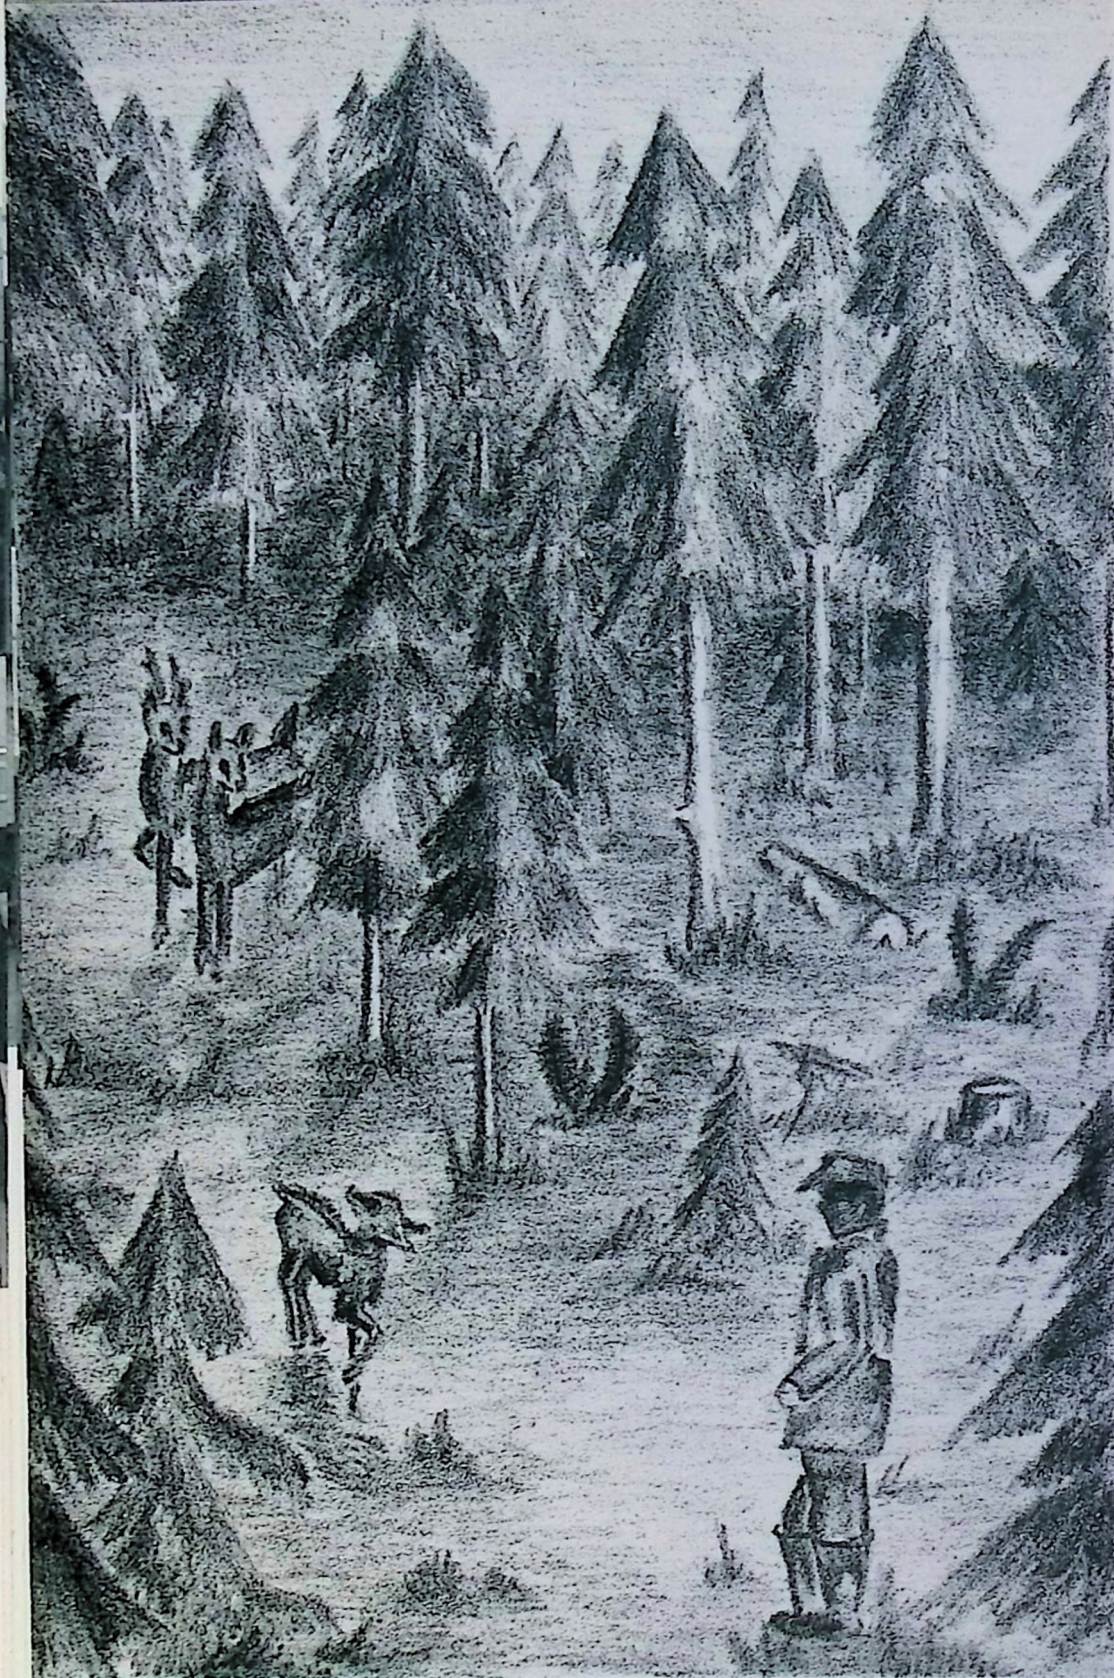

It has become a regular class, and probably will not appear in the annual after this as an extra-curricular activity. Unlike the chorus and glee of former years, the members are now given full credit and meet daily.

They represented Edmonds at the Snohomish County Music Festival, held at Everett in April, and appeared in the Spring Concert. Solo work was done by Ida Marian McClenahan.

EDMONDS 6 BOTHELL 0

Opposing a heavier and more experienced team the Edmonds Tigers charged to a 6-0 victory over the Bothell Pirates. Despite two two-hundred tackles on the alert, the Tigers pushed Palmer over for a touchdown at the end of the second quarter. The last half went in a seesaw fashion, with neither team getting beyond one another's 15-yard line.

EDMONDS 12 BELLEVUE 0

Fresh from their victory over Bothell, the Tigers scored their second win, when they defeated the Bellevue eleven 12-0. In the second quarter Clark, end, scored with an end-around play. Early in the third quarter, halfback Anderson broke away for a beautiful 34-yard touchdown run.

EDMONDS 12 KIRKLAND 6

Playing on a wet field, the Tigers powered their way to a 12-6 victory over the Kirkland team. The first touchdown was made by Captain Niederhauser when he blocked a Kangaroo kick. Anderson behind clever interference went over for the second score. Kirkland came back strong in the third quarter with halfback Fowler going 52 yards for the Kangaroo's score.

EDMONDS 26 STANWOOD 0

With the second team playing most of the first half the Tigers swamped Stanwood 26-0. The first touchdown followed a pass from Day to Meyring. Meyring soon went over for the second score. Bucklin went over for the third score early in the third quarter. In the last few minutes of the game Meyring tossed a pass to Goulet who went over to score.

EDMONDS 7 ARLINGTON 0

With a defense strong enough to withstand Arlington's famed passes and kicks, the Tigers won their fifth straight game of the season. In the last quarter, after several attempts to score, Anderson went over from the $\frac{1}{2}$ -yard line. Goulet passed the ball over the line to Holtcamp for the try for point, making the final score 7-0.

EDMONDS 26 SNOHOMISH 7

The Panthers gathered an early lead with a 90-yard run after an intercepted pass. Soon after Trager went forty yards around end for the Tigers' first score. Meyring followed an off-tackle jaunt to tally six more points. The last two touchdowns were scored by fullback Bucklin.

EDMONDS 0 MONROE 14

Held scoreless for three quarters, the Bearcats, with only a few minutes of the last quarter gone, threw overwhelming power at their opponents and drove from deep in Monroe territory over the Tiger goal line for the first tally. Sheer power was again responsible for the second tally made by the Bearcats.

EDMONDS 20 MARYSVILLE 7

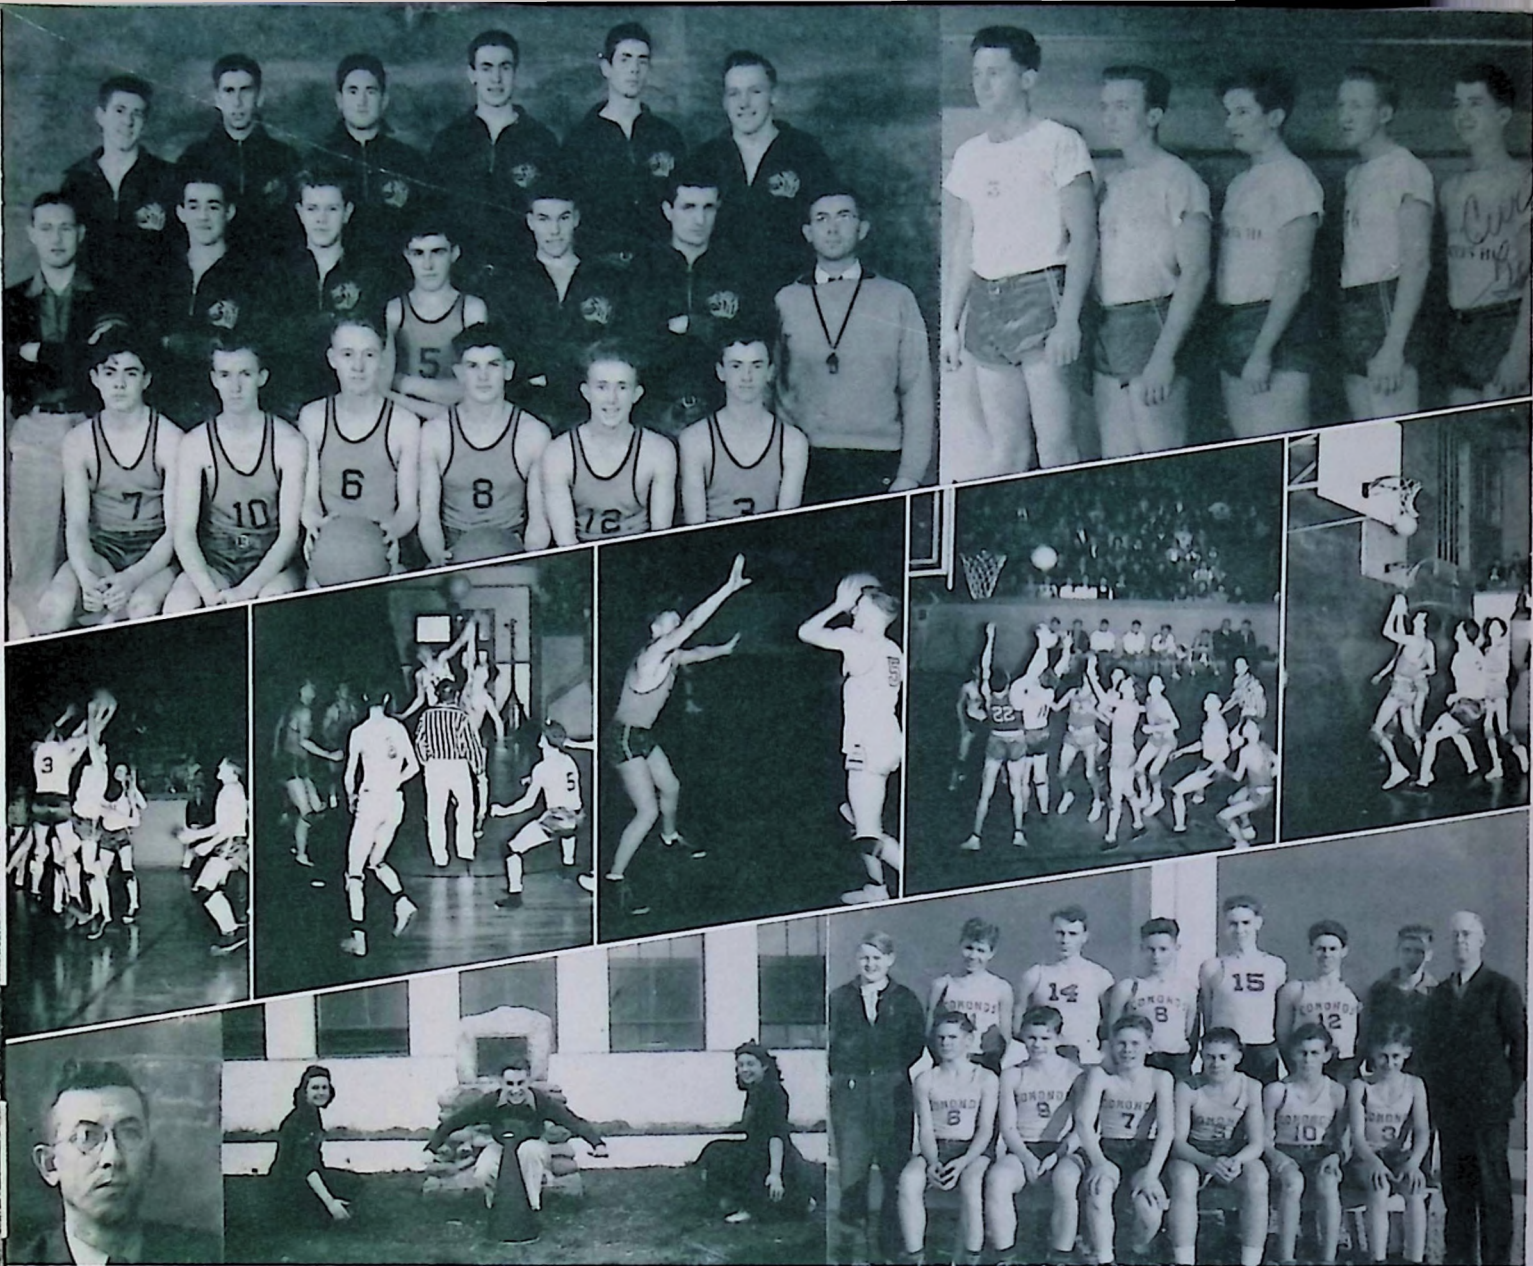

Smashing a five-year jinx the Edmonds Tigers put over a crushing 20-7 defeat on a fighting Marysville eleven. Goulet scored the first and third touchdowns; the latter was on a beautiful punt return of 72 yards. Edmonds scored for the second time in the last quarter when Bucklin on a fake reverse crossed the goal line. Currier, fullback of Marysville, scored their 7 points.

Basketball

With five returning lettermen and many aspiring for a place on the basketball squad, Edmonds showed possibilities of one of its best basketball teams in many years, as with each warm-up game the caliber of the team's play improved.

The Tigers were plagued by injuries this year which hampered the team's effectiveness. First, Don Meyring, the best shot on the squad, was in an accident injuring his left hand and was put out of action for the rest of the season. Tom Niederhauser sprained his ankle and missed several games. Frank Hoff and Walt Ewing were both below par due to injuries in several of the conference games.

Getting off on the wrong foot in league play by losing to Snohomish 44-17, Edmonds came right back in the next game and edged out Monroe 25 to 22. Traveling to Arlington, Edmonds suffered its second conference reverse, 34-20, when Arlington built up a big lead which was never overcome by the local quintet. Upsetting a favored Marysville team, 29-26, in an overtime battle, a new brand of ball was shown by the Tigers.

Snohomish looked as if it were going to repeat its lopsided earlier victory over Edmonds when these two quintets clashed a second time as the Panthers built up a 19-6 lead at halftime, but Edmonds came back in the last half to nearly trip the Panther five, only to lose 20 to 26 to the visitors. Monroe got the jump on the Tigers in the next game and defeated them 34-19.

Needing one more victory in their two remaining games to clinch a tournament berth, Edmonds got off to a fast start and outpointed Arlington's Eagles, 32 to 27 in the last home game of the season, going into a tie with Marysville and Monroe for second place. Marysville dropped Edmonds back into third place in the concluding league battle as the Tomahawks got red hot in the last half. The final score read Marysville 43, Edmonds 23. Monroe and Edmonds were then tied; a flipped coin decided this and Edmonds won third place.

In the opening County Tournament game East Stanwood upset the Tigers by the score of 36 to 26 and in the second game Lake Stevens upset a highly-favored Snohomish team 43-39. The two losers then played, and Edmonds was eliminated from the tournament as the Panthers scored a 45-30 triumph to bring to a close the Tiger's basketball season.

Bucklin's total of 88 points was high for the season with Meyring's 76 in nine fewer games next.

With Hoff, Ewing, and Meyring and a seasoned second team returning, prospects look bright for next year.

To a swell track man, lots of luck Dick L. B. Billson

Baseball With the Snohomish County Championship as their goal, the Edmonds Tigers started practice in the early part of March under Coach Robert Lane.

With only three first team players lost last year, the squad looks fairly strong.

The mound staff included Harold Johnson, Ray Thorne, and John Fussell. Fred Jones handled the catching. The infield consisted of Don Day on first, Dick Paige on second, Jack Daly at shortstop, and Frank Hoff on third.

The mound staff included Harold Johnson, Ray Story. Others that looked good were Jack L. Thompson, Bill Tuson, Tubby Thompson, Kenny Weiding, and Welcome Wamsley.

Southern division teams this year include Snohomish, Monroe, Arlington, Marysville, and Edmonds. The southern division winner will play against the northern division leader for the Snohomish County title.

Last year the Tigers tied for the southern division championship with Snohomish, but lost the heart-breaking playoff. The game ended 6-5 after a ten inning tussle.

Track Hoping to land a spot on the Tiger track squad, thirty-five prospective tracksters answered Coach Bieber's call for trackmen in mid-March.

To a 220 floss Paul Anderson

Seven lettermen turned out, a nucleus, which although small in number, are quite versatile and should show their heels to many opponents before the spiked shoes are laid away. Lettermen include: Eddie Nyman, Frank Nupp, Phil Roe, Jim Busch, Walt Goulet, Jim Hardman and Bill Eldridge. Newcomers who look good are: Walt Ewing, Roger Coyne and Jim Bartlett.

Tennis In the County Tennis Tournament last year, the only one from Edmonds who placed was Harry Kretzler who took third place in the first singles competition. In the District playoff, he was eliminated in the first round by Meyers from Bellingham who went on to the District championship.

Harry is again playing first singles although he is also being considered for first doubles with Myren Sjblom if Jack Tuson plays second singles.

Others who are giving these three lettermen a battle for positions include Phil Roe, Harold Wilcox, Dick Coyne, Gene Stone and Bill Crump.

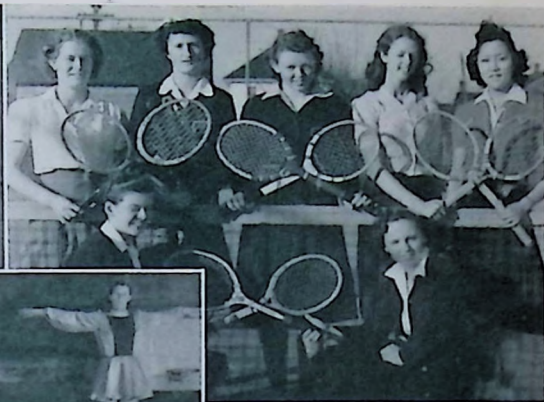

So far this year the tennis squad has been victorious over Monroe and Marysville, losing one match to the Hawks. Snohomish whitewashed the Tigers, winning all games. The Panthers should be County champs this year. Richmond Beach also boasts of defeating Edmonds, winning three out of four matches.

At the beginning of the speedball season the girls voted to have each girl contribute three cents to a fund which at the end of the season was to be used to feed the winning team ice cream and cake. This was liked so well that the idea was used for every sport throughout the year.

Under the management of Jean Whitlatch nearly one hundred twenty-five girls turned out for speedball despite the fact that they had to play in a field covered with grass and nettles. Korky's Korkers under the captainship of Dorothy Korshaven won the elimination tournament and were therefore entitled to the ice cream and cake. An A, B, and C team represented Edmonds at Sportsday which was held at Marysville on October 19. The results of the games played at Sportsday were a win for the A team and ties for both the B and C teams.

For the vodvil in the fall four girls of the tumbling team represented girls athletics by doing a few of their stunts. These girls were Marilyn Brine, LaVerne DeVoy, Agnes Anderson, and Jean Whitlatch.

Beginning with a Round Robin and ending with an Elimination tournament the volleyball season was an active one. Under the management of Virginia Whitlatch nearly one hundred volleyball enthusiasts turned out. Starting out with class teams and ending with teams chosen from every class the season was quite successful.

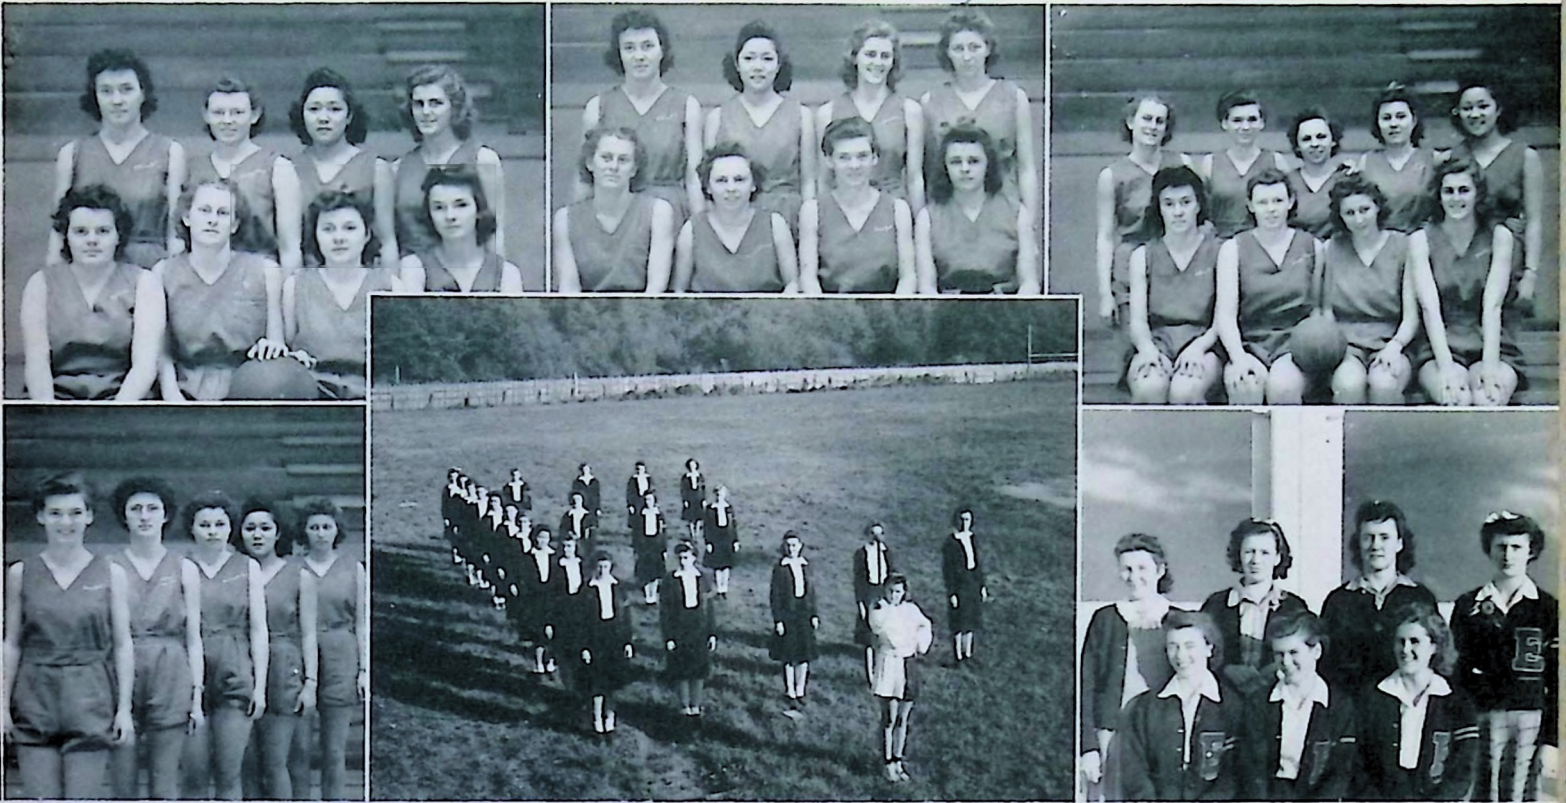

Ever-popular basketball, directed by Betty Stadler, had a turnout of nearly one hundred girls. Starting with a ladder tournament and ending with an elimination the basketball season was a great success. Boyle's and Johnson's teams played for first place and Boyle's team coming out the winner received the ice cream and cake.

Sportsday was held at Arlington on March 22. Two A, one B, and two C teams represented Edmonds at this meet. The two A and one C team won their games. The B and the other C team lost.

As the girls dusted off their bats and balls, Dorothy Korshaven called roll for baseball. Inspired by the balmy spring weather over one hundred twenty-five amateur Babe Ruths turned out for the spring activity. Sportsday was at Monroe in May.

The complicated records of track season were kept by Eleanore Thompson. The preliminary attempts were taken and the final results were tabulated in points. Track sportsday was combined with that for baseball at Monroe.

Six modern Diana's made up the archery squad. Despite their nervousness their shooting at the halftime of the Edmonds-Marysville game provided interesting entertainment.

Ping pong and tennis were under the supervision of Irma Gust and Shirley Dawes. The ping pong tournament, which was held in the fall was won by Sally Horn-ing in the singles; Teike Mafune and Agnes Anderson won doubles.

More girls completed their hikes this year than ever before. For the ten mile hike the group hiked to Point Wells where they made a bonfire and had hot dogs, potato chips, olives and pickles, marshmallows and water.

The tumbling team has had a successful season this year despite the fact that they tumbled at Arlington during an epidemic of measles and several days later nearly half the team came down with the disease. They all recovered though and where still as good if not better than ever.

The season was highlighted by their tumbling at a basketball game between the All-American Redheads, a girls team, and a Kirkland town team, at the University of Washington during the half of the Oregon-Washington basketball game, at the Elks Club in Everett, and for state basketball finals.
